Solar Energy

Solar energy is one of the effective renewable resources which is available frequently in the world. Our institution lies on the foothills of the western ghats which is frequently have very good sunny climate. The college has installed solar panels in the marine hostel, library, and mechanical block for solar power generation. During the academic year 2020-2021, the average power consumed was about 100205kW. The power generated through solar power was 2500kW respectively. The percentage of power utilization through solar energy was about 25 %, this was very useful to conserve the electrical power annually.

Biogas plant

In biogas plants, biogas is produced by the fermentation of biomass. This is one of the effective ways to produce methane gas from food waste. In our institution, 1m<sup>3</sup> of biogas are installed in the Bharathi hostel from using this facility 1000kg tons of kitchen waste everyday. This power source is helpful to boil some water and hot beverages for the mess workers in the time of working.

Sensor-based energy conservation

Sensor based energy conservation is one of the wireless system control technologies which helps to control the system by the automatic environmental conditions. This technology is one of the effective tools to minimize, control and improve the effective utilization of electrical and other forms of energy. Our institution installed sensor-based lights in the streets and grounds.

Use of LED Bulbs

Light Emitting Diode (LED) bulbs are one of the excellent eco-friendly alternative energy sources. Because these bulbs don't contain any mercury and consume less electrical energy and release more power. Our PSNCET installed LED bulbs in the classrooms, Laboratories, HoD, and Staff offices for effective utilization of the alternative energy sources.
